Conference Scope and Aim

Our commitment to exceptional teaching and experiential learning inspires us to organise intellectually stimulating events. Various FDPs in collaboration with NITs, international conferences, workshops and seminars have been organised successfully in the past. Taking ahead our academic pursuits, we are organising an International Conference in the stream of Social Sciences and Humanities. The prime focus of the conference is to critically examine the most prevalent and relevant issues in the two fields of studies. This Conference will offer participants an enriching opportunity to deepen their knowledge of Social Sciences and Humanities, theory and practice, policy making and engaging with worldwide academic critical debate.

We invite original research papers from interested scholars and academicians across the globe in the field of Social Sciences and Humanities. Papers written with an interdisciplinary approach are also welcome. The themes for the conference will cover pragmatic aspects of teaching and learning. Our aim in organising this conference is to brainstorm about the changing pedagogy and research scenario in India and abroad.

The conference will provide an international platform for academicians, researchers, managers, industrial participants and students to share their original research paper on global platform. The topics and subtopics related to the conference theme are listed below but not limited to:
